

Parma Issues Notice of Big Demonstration

On April 17th in Parma, Italy, a major demonstration in favour of Zero Waste and against incineration will be taking place, gathering people from all over Italy and abroad.

Parma is in the most polluted area of Europe, the Po Valley (known as the Food Valley), and the city is facing the threat of an incinerator to burn 130,000 tons of waste per year being built right in Parma. The participants will be calling for the implementation of a Zero Waste strategy based on prevention, reuse, recycling and composting that will contribute towards cleaning up the valley and introducing sustainability in the way resources are managed throughout the region. This is a demonstration not just against the proposed incinerator for Parma, but against ALL incinerators, proposed or already functioning, all over Italy. We invite all those fighting for a change of paradigm in order to create a clean and sustainable future to join us on this important day. The organizers (Associazione "Coordinamento Corretta Gestione Rifiuti e Risorse") are offering to coordinate accommodation for those coming from outside Parma. They are also organizing a dinner buffet after the demonstration, with a cost of max. 10 euro a head.
